"Shame" Is Big Special at Grand Monday Afternoon

"Shame," the William Fox special which, following a highly successful run in New York at a Broadway theater, at the Grand Monday, is a splendid fulfillment of the promise for motion picture progress. Spectacularly it is magnificent, and as an intense human drama it is tremendous. It is a story of great power and appeal presented most impressively.

"Shame" deals with the life of a young man of wealth, head of a big shipping interest in San Francisco, who was born in an alien land. David Fielding is happily married, and is highly successful in business. He seems to be fortune's favorite. Then comes from the land of his birth a man who tries to convince him that his mother was not a white woman, and that he is a half-caste. The idea takes hold of his mind and maddens him. Driven to desperation, he takes his infant child and flees from civilization to the wilds of Alaska.

From his secretary and friend, Mrs. Fielding learns where her husband has gone. She follows, accompanied by the secretary. In the snow fields their dog sled is attacked by wolves. The secretary jumps off with a rifle to fight the beasts. The dog team goes on to David's cabin and stops. David comes out and finds his wife in the snow. He carries her in, and is followed by a big wolf. He grapples, bare-handed, with the brute, and after a fierce fight kills it.

The climax, a singularly powerful one, clears up the haunting mystery which sent David Fielding into the Northland.

"Shame" was staged by Emmett J. Flynn, who made the William Fox special, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." John Gilbert, who plays the part of David Fielding, was elevated to stardom as a result of his work in this picture.

WEAK, NERVOUS, ALL RUN-DOWN

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. 'I saw after taking some Cardui ... that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person.'"

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me ... My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments. For sale everywhere. E. 83
